Champagne and Water Christened, the California, Largest Scow Built in Hawaii, Takes the Water---Ceremony a Success.

When Mrs. John P. Erdman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Dillingham, and sister of President Walter F. Dillingham, head of the Hawaiian Dredging Company, let slip a pretty red ribbon through her gloved fingers and allowed two gaily decorated bottles to crash against a steel plate on one end of the big dredger scow California yesterday afternoon, the huge vessel started easily down the greased ways, quickly gained momentum, and floated gracefully upon the smooth waters of Honolulu harbor. There was not a hitch from the instant two big sledge-hammers knocked the brakes from under the skids until the vessel was pronounced successfully launched. It was an occasion for congratulations both to Walter Dillingham and to John Hughes, who superintended the building of this, the largest scow ever constructed in the Hawaiian Islands.

For two months big crews of workmen wielded hammer and saw upon the scow, which contains 225,000 feet of lumber. When all was ready yesterday, the big assemblage saw a massive built craft, 130 feet long, 60 feet wide and 13 feet deep.

A platform, erected near the shore-end of the scow, was provided with chairs, and in the party occupying it were Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Dillingham, Governor and Mrs. Frear, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dillingham, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Erdman, Captain Rees, U. S. N., Mrs. P. Rees, Captain Parks, U. S. N., Civil Engineer Burrell, U. S. N., Mr. and Mrs.

Robert Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Billson of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Denison, George Denison, Mrs. Gerrit Wilder, Mrs. Alatau Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cooke, and others.

A high staging was also built close up to the steel plate, and upon this stood Mrs. Erdman, the California's sponsor, wearing a handsome mauve-colored gown. With her was Harold Dillingham. She quietly waited for the instant when the scow should start on its journey to the harbor.

Finally Mr. Hughes gave a command to the two hammer men. "One! two! three!" Down came the hammers, and at sixteen minutes past five o'clock the big scow began to move.

Mrs. Erdman drew back the red, white and blue ribbons attached to the two bottles suspended in midair, and immediately there followed a crash, a foaming cataract going down the end of the scow as Mrs. Erdman said "California." One of the bottles contained champagne and the other contained pure Pearl Harbor water.

The scow shot out into the harbor so rapidly that one of the hawsers which a workman aboard attempted to keep taut around a stanchion, started the stanchion to blazing and kept the end of the boat covered with smoke. The scow was towed to a wharf by Young Bros.' launches.

The scow will be rigged with the clam-shell machinery to operate an immense shell dredger. The vessel may not be ready for a month. When it is, she will be put to work on the bar at the entrance to Pearl Harbor channel. The scow cost in the neighborhood of $20,000.

PRAISE HAWAIIAN PINE.

Hawaii has raised 500,000 cases of pineapples and it is said wants to put them on the American market and has therefore determined to spend $50,000 advertising them. If what the editor of the Hartford Courant has to say about the Hawaiian pine is true, the best way of advertising them would be to distribute part of the crop as samples. "Nobody who has not tasted the Honolulu pineapple knows what pineapple is," says the Courant. "That is the real thing. Cut it and slice it? Not much; you just scoop it out with a spoon and it melts in your mouth."—Knoxville Sentinel.

JAPANESE SHORTHAND WRITERS ARE EXPERTS

Prof. Dening, the eminent Japanese scholar who is a large contributor of summaries of all publications in Japanese to the Japan Mail, and at present is acting as an expert interpreter in the Japanese strike trials here, states that the Japanese have a very fine system of shorthand which they employ to advantage in the courts and in all places where public speaking is a feature. He states that the shorthand writers are experts and the proceedings of the Japanese diet are taken in full and are absolutely correct. The testimony in trials as taken by these writers is quite correct. Even the transcripts of testimony for the local Japanese newspapers are taken in shorthand to some extent, and Prof. Dening takes advantage of the versions appearing in the Japanese papers to interpret the meaning the editors endeavor to convey by certain words which have been centers of contention in the courts recently.

The funeral of Don Carlos, the Pretender to the Spanish throne, was held in the church of Casheno with imposing ceremonies. The body was shipped to Trieste for burial.
